

Privacy Policy

Flywire Technical Services Ltd ("Flywire") is committed to protecting any personal information that you may provide to us. In particular, we believe it is important for you to know how we treat information about you that we may receive from this Web site.

Information Collected

In general, you can visit this Web site without telling us who you are or revealing any information about yourself. Our web servers collect the domain names, not the e-mail addresses, of visitors. In addition, there are portions of this Web site where we may need to collect personal information from you for a specific purpose, such as to provide you with certain information you request. The information collected from you may include your name, address, telephone, fax number, or e-mail address. This Web site is not intended for persons under 13 years of age. We do not knowingly solicit or collect personal information from or about children, and we do not knowingly market our products or services to children.

How we collect information

Personal information is collected directly from you in a variety of ways, including when you:

- Make an enquiry via the Flywire website
- Submit a CV or other such document
- Personal information may also be collected about you from a third party.

What information is collected

The information we collect may include, but is not limited to, your title, first name, surname, gender, date of birth, home and work contact details (phone, fax, email, postal address and email address). We may also collect information relating to your employment.

When paying for a product or services by credit or debit card, you will be redirected to a secure site. We never store or process your card information directly.

Use of Collected Information

Domain name information that we collect is not used to personally identify you and instead is aggregated to measure the number of visits, average time spent on the site, pages viewed, etc. We use this information to measure the use of our site and to improve the content of our site. When other information is collected from you, such as your name and e-mail address, we generally let you know at the time of collection how we will use the personal information. Usually, we use the personal information you provide only to respond to your inquiry or to process your request. When you are on Flywire's website and are asked for personal information, you are sharing that information with Flywire alone unless stated otherwise. For example, when you are using our secure online payment pages you are going through to a Barclays secure site, the information you give such as your credit card number and contact information is provided so that the transaction can take place. We may share the personal information you provide with other companies we have hired to provide services for us. These companies - our vendors - are contractually bound to use personal information we share with them only to perform the services we have hired them to provide.

We do not share, sell, or lease personal information about you to any third-parties for their marketing use. We will release information about you if you direct us to do so, if we are required by law to do so, or in other legally limited circumstances (for example, to protect your account from fraud). If you indicated that you are interested in receiving regular information such as Flywire's E-News, we will send you communications regarding Flywire's work and activities, either electronically or otherwise.

Cookies

A technology called cookies may be used to provide you with tailored information. A cookie is a text-only string of information that we pass to your computer's hard disk through your web-browser so that the website can remember who you are. Cookies cannot be used by themselves to identify you. A cookie will typically contain the name of the domain from which the cookie has come, the "lifetime" of the cookie, and a value, usually a randomly generated unique number. You may set your browser to notify you when you receive a cookie. For more information about cookies, please see www.allaboutcookies.org.

Security of Collected Information

Flywire maintains strict physical, electronic, and administrative safeguards to protect your personal information from unauthorized or inappropriate access. Unfortunately, no data transmission over the Internet can be guaranteed to be 100% secure. As a result, while we strive to protect your personal information, Flywire cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to us, and you do so at your own risk. Once we receive your transmission, we make our best effort to ensure its security on our systems. We will ensure that all personal information supplied is held securely, in accordance with the Data Protection Act 1998. We restrict access to information about you to those Flywire workers who need to know the information to respond to your inquiry or request. Workers who misuse personal information are subject to disciplinary action.

Access to Collected Information

In general, there is no method provided for you to review the information we hold about you. You have the right to request a copy of the personal information Flywire holds about you and to have any inaccuracies corrected. (We charge £10 for information requests.) Please use the contact page to request the information.

Contacting Us

If you have any questions about this privacy policy, please use the Contact page. We welcome your questions and suggestions about our privacy policy. Changes to this Policy Please check this privacy policy periodically to inform yourself of any changes. Although we reserve the right to modify or supplement this privacy policy, we will provide notice to you on this Web site of any major changes for at least 30 days following the change.